Product Description

Precision Environmental Management Layer Chicken Cage System Smart Coop

About Environmental Control

A well-controlled housing environment is essential to ensuring chicken health, reducing disease risks, and improving production performance and economic efficiency.

1.Control cabinet: The control cabinet offers robust functionality, reliable performance, and centralized operation, supporting both automatic and manual control modes. With our own electrical control workshop for assembly and debugging, we maintain strict quality control to ensure stable and long-lasting operation.

2.Munters AC2000 environmental controller delivers powerful function, stable performance, and precise control; When ensuring the chicken coop has excellent sealing, heat insulation and heat preservation performance, the temperature difference inside the coop is extremely small.

3.The 50mm air deflectors use insulation boards and aluminum alloy frame with sealing strips. Side curtains are installed to optimize airflow direction control. The system is fully automated and operated via the AC2000 control.

4.Equipped with anti-overpull protection devices to prevent wire rope breakage caused by worker misoperation or power outages.
