Product Description

Scientific Management Layer Chicken Cage System for Large Scale

Farmrob' equipment help each chicken intake uniform feed and provide double water line, which meet the demands of daily nutritional requirements. Ample movement space reduces stress and minimizes pecking behavior, promoting flock harmony.

The advanced lighting and ventilation systems, designed with Farmrob's expertise, provide consistent illumination, fresh air circulation, and optimal temperature control. This creates a comfortable environment that enhances chicken health and well-being.

Features:

Reduced Egg Breakage: The Q235 Al-Zn bottom net with good elasticity and 7.5° slope ensures a gentle landing for eggs, maintaining a breakage rate below 0.2%. Additionally, the egg collection belt operates smoothly at a consistent speed, enhancing stability and further minimizing breakage while boosting overall efficiency.

Hygienic environment: Manures are not left on the net. Eggs remain uncontaminated by waste and minimizing the risk of salmonella or other bacterial exposure. Additionally, the integrated egg leakage device filters out broken or soft-shell eggs, further reducing cross-contamination and upholding the highest food safety standards.

Extended Peak Laying Period: Farmrob's advanced management systems enhance the overall health of laying hens, significantly prolonging their high-productivity phase and maximizing egg output.
