Product Description

Streamlined Farm Management Layer Chicken Cage System for Russian Farms

The adoption of the H-type automatic cage system has become the preferred choice for large-scale farms. This system significantly enhances farm efficiency, improves overall hygiene, and simplifies management. With just one or two workers needed for operation, it streamlines daily tasks and reduces labor demands. Furthermore, the H-type cage system is constructed from high-quality materials, including Al-Zn-Mg alloy, ensuring exceptional durability and a longer service life.

The system saves significant space by utilizing a vertical, tiered design for three-dimensional rearing. This high-density approach allows for a substantial stocking capacity, typically accommodating over 20,000 layers.

Farmrob's current products include intelligent systems for layers, pullets, broilers, and breeders (for natural or artificial insemination), as well as welfare equipment.

Fully Automatic Systems

- Automatic feeding system
- Automatic drinking system
- Automatic egg collection system
- Automatic manure removal system
