Product Description

60000 Layer Chicken Cage System with Automated Feeding and Drinking Systems

Our 60000 Layer Chicken Cage System integrates fully automated systems for feeding, drinking, manure removal, ventilation, cooling, and lighting, significantly reducing labor demands. This centralized management approach allows a small team to efficiently operate large-scale poultry houses while enhancing productivity through precise resource delivery, optimal climate control, and effective waste management.

The consistent, well-regulated environment supports disease prevention and stress reduction, promoting healthier chickens, more uniform growth, and improved overall flock welfare and performance.

Automated System Features

Consistent Supply

Automatic feeding and drinking systems provide steady water and feed supply, eliminating manual intervention and reducing shortage risks.

Optimized Trough Design

Troughs are specifically tailored for laying hens, ensuring comfortable and efficient access with high-strength, corrosion-resistant materials.

Leak-Proof Nipples

Special structured nipples prevent leaking, minimizing water waste, keeping litter dry, and reducing disease risks from damp conditions.

Management Benefits

- Significantly reduced labor costs through full automation
- Improved hygiene and flock health with clean, leak-free water delivery
- Enhanced feed efficiency and consistent nutrient intake
- Higher egg production rates through optimized environmental conditions
- Exceptional space utilization with innovative cage design
- Stable egg production and improved overall flock health
