Product Description

30000 Birds Cage Free System with Advanced Ventilation And Good Feeding

In modern chicken farming, an increasing number of producers are recognizing the critical importance of poultry welfare. Raising layers goes beyond simply providing feed and water—it demands a holistic approach that prioritizes bird health, streamlines daily management, and respects natural behaviors. Our welfare-oriented system delivers precisely that across three critical dimensions. At the heart of this system lies uniform feeding, a cornerstone of precision management that ensures every bird receives equal access to nutrition, minimizing competition and promoting consistent flock growth.

System Features

Superior Animal Health & Hygiene

Optimized Microclimate Control: Modern welfare systems are engineered with advanced ventilation and manure removal systems that drastically reduce airborne ammonia and humidity. This creates a drier, cleaner environment, significantly lowering the incidence of respiratory diseases.

Optimized Farm Operations

Labor Efficiency & Automation: Welfare equipment is designed for seamless integration with automated feeding, watering, and egg-collection systems. Farm managers have good visibility of every bird, enabling early detection of sick or injured individuals. This facilitates prompt isolation and treatment, preventing the spread of illness across the entire flock.

Stress-free Environment

The equipment is thoughtfully designed with multi-tiered stairs, sturdy perches, and spacious activity platforms, creating a three-dimensional living space that caters to chickens' natural instincts. This layout not only provides ample room for daily exercise but also encourages essential behaviors like jumping, flapping, and roosting. As a result, the birds enjoy improved muscle tone and bone strength, while reduced crowding significantly lowers stress levels and minimizes the risk of aggressive pecking.
